Mary Wolf , Round 1 Bio

Mary Wolf is a kind, nurturing soul who holds the family together with her gentle demeanor and warm hospitality. She is a skilled cook and takes pride in creating a welcoming home, often seeing the best in others, even when they don't deserve it. Her forgiving nature sometimes leads her to overlook major flaws, believing that people can change or be misunderstood. Mary avoids confrontation and prefers to smooth over conflicts, but beneath her kindness, she carries the weight of the family's struggles, especially regarding C.C. 's financial troubles. Though quiet, she is deeply loyal to her family and always tries to protect their reputation.

Occupation: Stay,at,home wife and lady of the house.

Family Members:
C.C. Wolf (husband, deceased)
William Wolf (brother,in,law)
Lyle Wilson (nephew)
Sarah Wolf (Sister in Law)

Characters She Knows and Her Thoughts:

C.C. Wolf: Mary loved C.C. deeply and believes he would never have killed himself. She's heartbroken but convinced there's more to his death.

William Wolf: She finds him a bit too uptight, but knows he was close to C.C. and shares a bond over family matters.

Verbina: Mary thinks Verbina is great but a little quiet. She doesn't suspect her of anything.

Elma Parker: Mary doesn't like Elma. She's noticed the way Elma looks at C.C., and it unsettles her. After reading Elma's diary entry, she's been quietly mad at her.

Sarah Wolf: Mary really likes Sarah and believes they see eye to eye on many things, especially about the mansion's upkeep.

Mrs. Lemon: Mary believes Mrs. Lemon is hiding something. She's wary of her and senses jealousy or resentment from Mrs. Lemon.

Carley: Mary thinks Carley is very smart for her age but feels unsure about her family's history. She enjoys her company.

Lyle Wilson: Mary finds Lyle to be too much like William,serious and a bit greedy.

Samuel Dawson: Mary has a quiet, secret affection for Samuel. She often watched him work at his farm and admired his hard work. She's saddened by his financial troubles but can't express it openly.

Clues Mary Knows:

0. Half of a torn photo in C.C.s drawer. the half that she has seen is just of him. The other half will be revealed in round 2 found on the dead body.

1. Carley Hamilton's Birth Certificate:
She keeps this birth certificate from when Carley moved in with them. If asked about why Carley lives with them, she will say she's not allowed to disclose that information.

3. Elma Parker's Diary Entry:
Mary found this page from Elma's diary and read it. Though she didn't confront C.C. about it, she's been angry at Elma since. She didn't want to embarrass C.C. or upset him, given how busy he had been.

5. A Call to Our Community (Fundraising Letter):
Mary knows about her and C.C.'s promise to match the amount of money raised for the church. She also believes Mrs. Lemon is jealous or harbors some resentment towards them. If asked, she'll talk about this, but she'll hold back on mentioning any deep resentment.

6. William's Letter to C.C.:
C.C. had briefly mentioned their financial troubles to Mary but always reassured her that he would handle it. If brought up, Mary would think this was just a minor issue, nothing major.

William Wolf , Round 1 Bio

William Wolf is a serious, no,nonsense man with a strong focus on business and responsibility. As the older brother, he feels the weight of the family's financial legacy and has grown frustrated with C.C. 's poor money management, which he believes has jeopardized their future. William is practical, level,headed, and driven by duty, but his stern demeanor can come off as cold or overly critical. He's deeply protective of the family's assets and has little patience for those he considers careless or naive. While he values loyalty, he struggles to express affection and tends to put business over personal relationships. Beneath his tough exterior, William genuinely cares about the family's well-being but feels the pressure to keep everything in line.

Family Members:

C.C. Wolf (brother,)
Mary Wolf (sister,in,law)
Sarah Hamilton (sister)
Lyle Wilson (nephew)

Characters He Knows and His Thoughts:

C.C. Wolf: William had a strong brotherly bond with C.C., but he was frustrated with C.C. acting like the younger brother and being careless with money. While they were close, William felt C.C. wasn't as responsible as he should have been, especially regarding finances.

Mary Wolf: William doesn't mind Mary but thinks she's too nice and tends to cover up people's mistakes or bad behavior. He's not too close to her.

Verbina/Elma: William doesn't really know the maids and has no strong feelings about them. He just assumes they do their jobs.

Sarah Hamilton: William is a bit jealous of Sarah because C.C. always seemed to like her more, but he respects her ability to keep the family together. She's reliable in family matters.

Mrs. Lemon: William holds neutral feelings toward Mrs. Lemon. He doesn't think about her too much.

Samuel Dawson: William hates Samuel and believes that after C.C. took his land, Samuel might have had a motive to kill him. He also thinks Samuel is bad at running a business and resents the situation with the farm.

Calrey: William doesn’t understand why Calrey is living with them, but she seems to do a decent job when she works at the bank. He finds her presence a bit confusing but doesn’t give it much thought.

Lyle Wilson: William likes Lyle a lot. He sees himself in Lyle,determined and ambitious, with an iron will to achieve what he wants. William is proud of his nephew’s drive.

Clues William Knows:

1. Last Will and Testament of Charles C. Wolf:
William is skeptical about the authenticity of this will, as he’s never seen this version before and feels he should have received more from C.C. 's estate.

2. Letter to Charlie:
William is feeling lost after C.C.'s death and is unsure how it will affect the family business. He worries about what the future holds without C.C.'s leadership, even though he was frustrated with his brother's decisions.

Verbina's Round 1 Bio: Only Talk about the Bracelet if someone asks who it is from THEN SAY YOU CAN'T TELL. NEVER TALK ABOUT YOU AND LYLE, GUESTS MUST PIECE IT TOGETHER FROM THE CLUES.

Verbina is a quiet, reserved, and introspective maid who keeps to herself, preferring to stay in the background. She's hardworking and diligent, focusing on her tasks without much fuss or attention. Though she doesn't say much, she's incredibly observant, picking up on the subtle details others might miss. Her calm and composed nature often hides the deeper emotions she keeps bottled up, especially when it comes to her secret relationship with Lyle and the tension it creates within her. Verbina is very close to Elma, her best friend, and despite their differences in personality, she values their bond deeply. She's also quietly protective of Elma, even if she doesn't express it outwardly. While she doesn't trust many people easily, she has a soft spot for those who show her kindness, but she remains cautious and thoughtful, always weighing her words carefully before she speaks.

YOU ARE STATIONED AT THE BOTTOM OF THE STAIRS THAT LEAD TO THE ATTIC FOR ROUND ONE, TRY TO HIDE SO NO ONE GOES OUT OF THERE WAY TO GET TO YOU. THEY CANT GO UP YET BECAUSE THE MURDER SCENE IS UP THERE. IF SOMEONE ASKS TO GO UP THERE SAY THEY CAN SOON, IF THEY ASK WHY SAY C.C. TOLD HER NO ONE IS ALOUD UP THERE YET SO THEY CAN GO ASK C.C. ME OR RUBY WILL COME TELL YOU WHEN YOU CAN MOVE AND GO TO THE KITCHEN WITH ELLIE.

Verbina is one of C.C.'s maids she has been working at the mansion for around 3 years with Elma

Extra Fact, You will have a bracelet that is matching with Lyle, Do not talk about Lyle this round. In Round 2 his bracelet will be revealed, still then don't say who it's from. Your relationship is a secret.

Family:

- Only sister: Mrs. Susie Lemon (secret until Round 3 so don't tell guests)

What She Thinks of People:

- C.C. Wolf: Thought he was a good boss, always kind to the servants, especially Elma. He couldn't pay well toward the end, which frustrated her a bit, but overall, she appreciated how he treated them.
- Mary Wolf: Thinks Mary is very nice, a great cook, and always polite to everyone. She respects Mary's kindness and ability to take care of the household.
- Elma Parker: Elma is her best friend; they do everything together. Verbina would always stand by her no matter what, even though she worries about Elma's feelings for C.C.
- William Wolf: Thinks William is too serious, always focused on business, and a bit mean. She feels he has potential to be the killer because of how cold and calculating he seems.

- Sarah Wolf: Sarah is pleasant enough, though she's a big gossip Verbina knows Sarah has some good information about the family, but she thinks Sara needs to clean up better after herself.
- Mrs. Lemon (Susie): Used to love her sister Susie deeply but now feels hurt and angry because Susie is keeping her and Lyle apart. Verbina believes Susie is jealous of C.C., especially because C.C. always tried to take control of the church. She senses a lot of resentment in her sister.
- Samuel Dawson: Doesn't know him very well and doesn't have much of an opinion about him.
- Lyle Wilson: Verbina and Lyle are in a secret relationship. She admires his bravery, hard work, and determination. Lyle always helps her with cleaning when she asks, and she loves how dedicated he is to her and to his goals.
- Carley Hamilton: She doesn't mind that Carley lives at the mansion, but she doesn't understand why. Verbina thinks Lyle would be a much better apprentice to C.C. than Carley, who seems out of place.

Clues She Knows:

- The Floor Plan: Don't outwardly mention this unless asked. Verbina knows Lyle made changes to the floor plan and that he told her one day the house would be his, and they could live there together. He said the house was worth a lot of money. Do not mention her relationship with Lyle. and even then make sure the guest knows it's on the down low.
- Elma's Diary Entry: Verbina is aware of Elma's diary entry about C.C. and knows that her friend is in an unhealthy situation with him. She worries about Elma but doesn't want to hurt her feelings by saying anything directly.
- Note from Verbina: No one should know she wrote this note. If asked, she should say she's not allowed to talk about it, hinting that guests are on the right track. She should not reveal that Susie is Mrs. Lemon ye or that they are sisters.
- Church Fundraising: She resents her sister Susie, so Verbina thinks the church fundraiser is pointless. She comments that they are lucky C.C. took an interest in it, but she doesn't believe it's a wise use of time or money.
- Letter from William to Charlie: Verbina knows there are financial troubles in the household and that William is angry at C.C. for mismanaging funds. While she's not aware of the letter's exact contents, she understands that it relates to money issues in the family.

Elma Parker's Round 1 Bio: Elma is a maid at the Mansion; she has been working there for 3 years and has a crush on C.C. Wolf

Elma Parker is an outgoing and cheerful servant who is always full of energy and optimism. She's friendly, talkative, and loves to chat with everyone in the house, making her well liked by most of the staff. Elma is confident in her work and enjoys her job, often taking pride in the little things she does to make the mansion run smoothly. She's especially close to her best friend, Verbina, and is very protective of her, always trying to lift her spirits since Verbina is more reserved. Elma has a strong sense of loyalty to the Wolf family, particularly to C.C., with whom she shares a quiet admiration. Despite her open and bubbly personality, Elma can be fiercely protective of those she cares about, especially Verbina, and she's not afraid to speak up when she feels something is wrong.

Family:

- No known family is mentioned directly, but Elma and Verbina are extremely close, like sisters.

What She Thinks of People:

- C.C. Wolf: Elma had strong feelings for C.C. and admired how kind he was to her, despite his growing financial troubles. She was drawn to his charm and wealth, although their relationship became a secret infatuation. She always felt special in his presence but knew it wasn't something that could last.
- Mary Wolf: She respects Mary as the lady of the house and thinks she's sweet, but at times, she feels Mary is oblivious to what's happening under her nose. She's a little scared of Mary but Mary's kindness is unquestionable, and she always treated Elma fairly.
- Verbina: Verbina is her best friend and confidante. Elma trusts her completely and tells her everything, even her feelings for C.C. Despite the closeness, Elma sometimes feels that Verbina doesn't fully understand her emotional connection to C.C. She knows Verbina is looking out for her, but she wishes her friend could see things from her perspective.
- William Wolf: Elma finds William intimidating and far too stern for her liking. His constant focus on business makes him seem unapproachable, and she often feels like he looks down on the servants, though he keeps it to himself.
- Sarah Wolf: Sarah Is alright. She helped Elma put up the Christmas tree last year and they had fun conversions.
- Mrs. Lemon (Susie): Elma knows Susie through Verbina, but she doesn't have strong feelings about her. She thinks of her as strict and controlling, especially in how she tries to keep Verbina and Lyle apart. Elma feels Susie is a little too involved in everyone's business.

- Samuel Dawson: Elma has no opinion on Samuel. She doesn't interact with him much, but she's heard rumors from the staff that he's bitter about the farm situation.
- Lyle Wilson: Elma sees Lyle as a hardworking, determined man, and she knows that Verbina cares deeply for him. She appreciates that he helps out around the house and thinks he's a good match for her friend, but she's focused more on her own feelings for C.C. and doesn't pay Lyle much attention beyond that.
- Carley Hamilton: Elma doesn't interact with Carley often but feels indifferent towards her. She finds Carley's presence at the mansion unnecessary, since she believes Lyle would be more capable in managing C.C. 's affairs.

Clues She Knows:

- Her Diary Entry: Elma's feelings for C.C. are written down in her diary, which Verbina knows about. In it, she expresses her admiration for C.C., hinting at their closeness. If The Torn Photograph (Mary's Clue): Elma has seen the torn photograph Mary holds in Round 1, but she hasn't given it much thought. If asked, she'll remember it, but she won't know its full significance. She might mention that Mary seemed upset when she found it.
- The Will: Elma is aware of whispers among the staff about the will. She's overheard bits of conversation between Lyle and William, but she doesn't understand the full extent of the dispute over C.C.'s assets. Still, she knows there's tension between the family members about who will inherit what.
- Church Fundraising (Verbina's Clue): Elma is aware of C.C.'s involvement in the church fundraising but doesn't have strong feelings about it. She mostly hears about it from Verbina, who seems to have a much stronger opinion on the matter. If asked, Elma might repeat Verbina's sentiment that the fundraiser is a waste of time.

Sarah Wolf's Round 1 Bio:

Family:

- Sarah is the sister of C.C. Wolf and William Wolf. She drops by the mansion on holidays and family occasions, but she lives independently and isn't involved in the day-to-day affairs of the household.

What She Thinks of People:

- C.C. Wolf: Sarah had a decent relationship with C.C., though she wasn't as close to him as she would've liked. She admired his ambition but worried about his financial decisions. She noticed his growing debt and the tension it brought to the family. Sarah often acted as the peacekeeper, trying to keep the family together despite C.C.'s challenges.
- Mary Wolf: Sarah likes Mary and sees her as the glue of the household. She finds Mary's kindness comforting, and she always felt welcomed when visiting the mansion. However, Sarah sometimes thinks Mary might be too forgiving, especially when it comes to family problems.
- William Wolf: Sarah respects William as the serious, business,minded brother who seems to keep the family's finances afloat. She senses a strain between William and C.C. but has always believed William would be the one to hold the family together. Though William can be tough, Sarah appreciates his practicality.
- Verbina: Sarah doesn't know Verbina well and thinks of her as just another servant. She has no strong opinions but assumes she does her job well.
- Carley Hamilton: Sarah is highly suspicious of Carley. She believes Carley weaseled her way into the family for her own benefit, using her job at the bank as a way to get closer to C.C. and his assets. Sarah can't shake the feeling that Carley's family has ulterior motives and thinks Carley is playing some kind of long game. In Sarah's mind, Carley has the potential to be the killer, given her convenient presence in the mansion and her influence over C.C.'s business dealings.
- Mrs. Lemon (Susie): Sarah doesn't know much about Mrs. Lemon except that she's involved in the church, and C.C. respected her work there. She's neutral toward her, though she suspects Mrs. Lemon might have mixed feelings about C.C. 's growing power in the church community.

- Samuel Dawson: Sarah hasn't had much direct interaction with Samuel but knows about his land dispute with C.C. She's heard from family that Samuel is upset over losing his land, but she doesn't believe he has the ability to do anything drastic. She does think that someone with financial motives could easily manipulate him.
- Lyle Wilson: Sarah doesn't pay much attention to Lyle, seeing him as the chauffeur who has always been around. She's neutral toward him, but doesn't see him as particularly ambitious or threatening. Sarah mostly views him as a background figure in the larger family drama.

Clues She Knows:

- Carley's Suspicious Behavior: Sarah has noticed Carley lurking around the mansion, acting as though she's more involved in the family than she should be. Sarah will drop hints about seeing Carley sneaking into C.C.'s office or overhearing her talking about money with someone in the house. She believes Carley is up to something and is keen to push guests toward suspecting her.
- Carley's Birth Certificate: Sarah discovered Carley's birth certificate, which raised a red flag for her. The birth date and circumstances seem suspicious to Sarah, especially given that Carley didn't come into the family until much later in life. Sarah finds the age gap between Carley and the other Wolf children odd and believes this might be a key clue, suggesting that there could be more to Carley's story than meets the eye.
- Age Gap Between the Kids: Sarah has always found it strange that Carley's arrival in the family came after a significant gap between the other children. This fuels her suspicion that there's something off about Carley's presence in the family and her potential motivations. Sarah will subtly suggest that the guests look into Carley's family background, hinting at the birth certificate and the possibility of a hidden connection.
- Torn Photograph (Mary's Clue): Sarah knows about the torn photograph that Mary has but hasn't paid too much attention to it. However, she will mention it to guests if they ask about family secrets, pointing out that it could be related to the larger mystery.

Mrs. Lemon's Bio

Family (Verbina) (sister)

Mrs. Lemon is a stern and proper woman with a strong sense of duty, especially to her faith and community. She's known for being deeply involved in church affairs and plays a significant role in fundraising efforts for St. Patrick's Catholic Church. She's meticulous and devout, always holding herself and others to high moral standards. While she has a calm exterior, underneath, she harbors frustrations, especially toward certain family members and people in C.C. Wolf's life.

Her quiet disapproval of certain individuals is masked by her polite demeanor, particularly regarding her strained relationship with her sister, Verbina, and her secret disdain for Lyle. Though she is aware of Verbina's secret relationship with Lyle, she keeps this knowledge to herself for now, disapproving of their union silently. Mrs. Lemon believes Lyle is beneath her sister and manipulative, but she won't let on that she knows about their romance until later.

Despite her stern nature, Mrs. Lemon can be quite political in how she handles others, especially in social circles, always maintaining her reputation of respectability.

Her Thoughts on Other Characters:

- C.C. Wolf: Mrs. Lemon is growing increasingly frustrated with C.C. for trying to take over the church and its affairs. She sees him as someone who, while outwardly charitable, may be too controlling. Her respect for him is starting to wane, and she holds a quiet resentment toward his influence in the community.

- Mary Wolf: She respects Mary for her kindness and grace. Mrs. Lemon finds Mary to be a dutiful wife and a good,hearted person, though she does think Mary turns a blind eye to some of C.C.'s faults.
- Verbina: This is her sister, though no one knows yet. Mrs. Lemon still loves Verbina deeply but is frustrated and disappointed by her choices, particularly in pursuing a relationship with Lyle. She sees Verbina as naive and wishes she could pull her away from the situation, but she's not ready to reveal her connection or intervene directly just yet.
- Lyle Wilson: She does not like Lyle and sees him as a troublemaker who's trying to weasel his way into the family and Verbina's life. Mrs. Lemon believes Lyle is ambitious, but for all the wrong reasons, and would love nothing more than to see him out of the picture. However, she keeps her distaste hidden at this point.
- William Wolf: She finds William to be too serious and businessminded, but she respects his sense of responsibility. However, his rigidness makes him unapproachable at times.
- Sarah: Mrs. Lemon respects Sarah, seeing her as a stable and respectable woman in the family. Though they don't have a close bond, Mrs. Lemon appreciates Sarah's efforts to maintain the family's image.
- Carley: She doesn't trust Carley and finds her presence suspicious, viewing her as an outsider who has wormed her way into the family. Mrs. Lemon is skeptical of Carley's intentions and is keeping a close eye on her, believing she might be up to something.
- Samuel Dawson: Mrs. Lemon doesn't have much of an opinion on Samuel as she doesn't know him well. However, she tends to look down on farmers like him, seeing them as beneath her social standing.

Clues Mrs. Lemon Knows:

The Church Fundraiser Flyer: Mrs. Lemon is heavily involved in raising $8,500 for the new expansion of St. Patrick's Catholic Church. However, her frustration with C.C.'s attempts to take over the project is evident. She feels he's trying to overshadow the church's efforts, which angers her as she believes in preserving the sanctity of the fundraiser. The flyer she circulates

Samuel dawson

Samuel Dawson is a hardworking and rugged farmer, known for his stoic nature and deep connection to the land. He's a quiet man who tends to keep to himself, but beneath his reserved exterior is a complex individual with a soft spot for those he admires. Samuel is often overlooked by the wealthier folks in town, but he carries a quiet pride in his work and his independence. He's got a strong moral compass but is prone to harboring grudges, particularly against those who he feels have wronged him.

Though Samuel generally stays out of the business of others, he's developed a secret crush on Mary Wolf, whom he's seen watching him in the fields. While Samuel would never openly express his feelings, he's willing to reveal this secret to guests if they promise to keep it quiet. His admiration for Mary causes him to see her in a different light from everyone else in the Wolf family, and he believes she deserves better than C.C.

What He Thinks of the Other Characters:

- C.C. Wolf: Samuel has nothing but contempt for C.C. Wolf, believing him to be greedy and reckless. C.C.'s business dealings led to Samuel losing some of his land, and Samuel has never forgiven him for that. He sees C.C. as a careless man who is bad with money and undeserving of his status. He even suspects that C.C.'s financial failings could have driven someone to kill him.
- Mary Wolf: Samuel has a secret admiration for Mary. He believes she's a kind and gentle soul, different from the rest of the family. Mary would sometimes come out to watch him work in the fields, and Samuel took comfort in those moments. He holds onto a hope that there's more between them, though he knows it's unlikely. He will share this with guests, but only if they promise to keep it a secret.

- Verbina: Samuel doesn’t know much about the maids, but he sees her lurking around Lyle in a creepy way and is slightly off put by her
- Elma: Similarly to Verbina, Samuel doesn’t know Elma very well. He views her as a quiet presence in the household, respectful and hardworking, but has no particular thoughts about her beyond that.
- William Wolf: Samuel sees William as a more serious and capable man than C.C., but he still doesn't trust him completely. William represents the cold, business,driven side of the family, and Samuel finds him distant and rigid. He views William with mild suspicion, wondering if his business ambitions might have pushed him to do something drastic.
- Sarah: Samuel doesn’t have much of a relationship with Sarah. He’s only seen her in passing during family events or visits to the farm. He finds her pleasant enough but nothing more than another wealthy member of the Wolf family.
- Mrs. Lemon: He has no strong feelings toward Mrs. Lemon, seeing her as a religious woman who keeps to herself. They don’t cross paths often, and he doesn’t think much about her role in the family or in the church.
- Lyle Wilson: Samuel has worked with Lyle occasional out on the fields and thinks he's a determined guy and a hard worker
- Carley: Samuel doesn’t know much about Carley and doesn’t understand her role in the family. He finds her presence odd and unnecessary, especially since she’s not a blood relative. He doesn't trust her and thinks she could have ulterior motives.

Clues Samuel Knows About:

1. The Sketch of Mary: Samuel found a sketch of Mary tucked away in his cowboy hat. He’s not sure who drew it, but he keeps it hidden as a personal treasure. The sketch, to him, represents his secret admiration for her, and though he’ll reveal it to guests, he will insist they keep it between them.
2. His Lost Land: While it’s not a physical clue, yet it will be a clue in round 2 Samuel’s knowledge of C.C. taking over his land is important. He feels deeply wronged by C.C. and suspects this business might be a key factor in what ultimately led to C.C.’s death. If asked, Samuel will talk about how losing his land still weighs heavily on him and how he could easily imagine someone being driven to murder over such financial tensions.

Carley's Bio, If people ask where you dad is say its a sensitive topic, you will find out in round 3 he had already died

Carley is a sharp, observant young woman who has worked her way into the Wolf family household through a mixture of luck, wit, and a bit of cunning. She's not a blood relative, but C.C. took her in and provided her with opportunities to prove her worth in the family's business ventures, particularly at the bank. Carley is ambitious, determined, and willing to play the long game to secure her place in the family's legacy. She's not afraid to get her hands dirty if it means getting ahead, though she's careful to maintain a composed, agreeable demeanor in front of others.

Carley isn't particularly warm or open, but she knows how to charm when necessary. She's a mystery to most, and many of the family members are unsure why she's in the household at all.

What She Thinks of the Other Characters:

- C.C. Wolf: Carley respected C.C. for his business acumen and how he gave her a chance when no one else would. Though she didn't always agree with his decisions, she saw him as a mentor of sorts. She's not fully sure why he took her in yet. She felt like he understood her drive and ambition, but she also knew he was in deep financial trouble, which worried her.
- Mary Wolf: Carley and Mary have a tense relationship. Carley is convinced that Mary resents her presence in the household, thinking that Mary sees her as a threat to her position in the family. Carley believes Mary is jealous that C.C. took her in and gave her opportunities, particularly in the bank. Despite this, Carley hides her disdain for Mary, but underneath the surface, she has little respect for her.
- Verbina: Carley doesn't think much of the maids. She acknowledges that they keep the household running smoothly, but she considers them to be beneath her concern. She's noticed how quiet Verbina is, but Carley doesn't pay much attention to her otherwise.

- Elma: Carley sees Elma in the same way as Verbina, viewing her as just another servant. She may have noticed Elma's closeness to C.C., but she dismisses it as unimportant in the grander scheme of things. Carley's focus is on business, and she doesn't waste time thinking about the help.
- William Wolf: Carley respects William's serious nature and his dedication to the family business. She sees him as a potential ally if she plays her cards right. However, she also knows that William is suspicious of her, and she's careful to keep her ambitions subtle around him. She views him as competent but ultimately not as clever as she is.
- Sarah: Carley has an odd relationship with Sarah. She knows that Sarah keeps the family connected, but she also thinks Sarah doesn't trust her and might be watching her too closely. Carley tries to stay on Sarah's good side while also keeping her distance, believing that Sarah could pose a threat if she ever chose to look too closely at her motives.
- Mrs. Lemon: Carley doesn't have much of an opinion on Mrs. Lemon. She sees her as just another religious figure who floats around the family. Carley finds her devotion to the church slightly irritating but ultimately harmless. She knows that Mrs. Lemon is wellconnected in the community, but Carley doesn't think she's important in the grander scheme of things.
- Lyle Wilson: Carley sees Lyle as a useful figure but not particularly bright. She appreciates his hardworking nature and determination but doesn't think he has what it takes to rise in the family. She finds his relationship with Verbina mildly interesting, though she doesn't care enough to get involved.
- Samuel Dawson: Carley doesn't know Samuel well but finds him irrelevant to her ambitions. As a farmer, he's far removed from the business dealings that matter to her, and she's never really thought much about him. His crush on Mary might be useful information, but for now, Carley doesn't see him as a threat or ally.

Clues Carley Knows About:

1. Birth Certificate of Carley: Carley is aware of her mysterious origins and the strange circumstances around her family, particularly the birth certificate that raises questions about the age gap between children. She doesn't openly discuss this, but she's well aware that her background might be a topic of conversation among the guests.
2. Suspicion of the Family: Carley has always been on edge regarding how others perceive her. She feels like she's constantly being watched and judged, particularly by Mary. She suspects that some members of the family might be digging into her background, and she's careful about what she reveals.

Additional Clue:

- The Sketch: Carley is aware that some people in the household don't trust her, but she also knows about the sketch of Mary being found in Samuel's cowboy hat. She finds it amusing that Samuel has a crush on Mary, seeing it as a potential leverage point if she needs it. While it's not something she's openly discussing, Carley is always thinking about how to use any information to her advantage.

Lyle's Bio

Lyle Wilson is a determined and ambitious young man who serves as a chauffeur for the Wolf family; he wants to be more of a business worker and sometimes works at the bank. Though he is not a member of the family, he is deeply entwined in their affairs, primarily due to his connection to Mary Wolf and the promise of inheritance that comes with his uncle's will. Lyle is streetsmart and quick on his feet, using his knowledge of the family's dynamics to navigate the treacherous waters of their relationships. Despite his hardworking nature, he struggles with feelings of entitlement and believes he deserves more recognition for his loyalty.

While Lyle has a keen sense of self,preservation and is willing to play the game to secure his future. His charm and flirtatious demeanor help him navigate interactions, particularly with Verbina, who harbors romantic feelings for him. Lyle is motivated by the prospects of wealth and status and is unafraid to leverage his relationships for personal gain.

What He Thinks of the Other Characters:

C.C. Wolf: Lyle respects C.C. for his business acumen but feels resentment toward him for keeping him in a subservient position. He sees C.C. as a complicated figure,one who holds the keys to his future wealth but also embodies the barriers to his ambitions. Lyle is aware of C.C.'s financial struggles and wonders if this might create an opportunity for him. Lyle loves the house and plans to be next in the will.

Mary Wolf: Lyle has a complicated relationship with Mary. He sees her as a gateway to influence and status but also senses her disdain for him. Lyle believes Mary views him as a threat and is wary of how she might leverage her influence in the family against him.

Carley: Lyle sees Carley as an opportunist who has wormed her way into the family. He is suspicious of her motives and thinks she might be plotting something. Lyle is cautious around her, as he knows she can be manipulative, and he doesn't trust her intentions.

Verbina: Lyle has romantic feelings for Verbina, viewing her as a confidante and ally. He appreciates her loyalty but is also aware of how her attachment to him might complicate things. He finds her sweetness endearing but knows he must tread carefully to avoid any fallout from their relationship.

William Wolf: Lyle views William as a potential ally, but he is also aware of William's cautious nature. He respects him but thinks he might be a roadblock to his ambitions. Lyle believes that if he can win William's trust, it could open doors for him in the family business.

Sarah: Lyle is wary of Sarah, sensing that she keeps a close watch on the family dynamics. He believes she is smart enough to see through his facade and is cautious about revealing too much to her. He knows her connections could be detrimental if she ever turned against him.

Mrs. Lemon: Lyle finds Mrs. Lemon harmless but slightly irritating. He sees her as another figure in the household who doesn't contribute to the dynamics of power but keeps everyone on their toes. He dismisses her as someone whose opinions hold little weight in the grand scheme of things.

Samuel Dawson: Lyle thinks of Samuel as irrelevant to his ambitions. While he recognizes Samuel's crush on Mary, he doesn't see any real threat from him. Lyle finds Samuel amusing but mostly just a distraction in the larger game he's playing.

Clues Lyle Knows About:

Last Will and Testament of Charles C. Wolf: Lyle wrote this will and put himself as the top recipient of all the good while still trying to make it believable but he doesn't want anyone to know that.

Library Plan: Lyle discovered the floor plan of the Wolf household and noted that the library had been crossed off and renamed as "Lyle's Office." This gives him a sense of ownership over the space, reinforcing his belief that he is meant to be a part of the family's legacy.

Letter from Verbina: Lyle has a secret letter from Verbina, which reveals the depth of their relationship. In the letter, Verbina expresses her desire to be with him despite family obstacles. Lyle cherishes this letter and keeps it close, as it symbolizes his connection to her.

Letter from William to C.C.: Lyle stumbled upon a letter from William to C.C. discussing the family's financial situation. He plans to use this information to paint William in a negative light, believing it could help him gain leverage in the family and support his claims about C.C.'s management.
