Mary Wolf Round 2 Bio:

Ideas for dialog, change to words to whatever you would like when talking to guests. Just know the main idea of what your character thinks about others.

C.C. Wolf: I know C.C. didn't kill himself. He wasn't perfect, not by a long stretch. There were secrets,many of them,but he was too proud to end his own life. And the truth is, C.C. was a complicated man. He looked after his family, or at least he tried, but lately, I've been wondering how much of that was for show. Maybe he wasn't as great as everyone believed."

Elma Parker
"Elma... poor girl. She had quite the crush on C.C., and I suppose it was sweet in its own way. But there's something unsettling about it now, isn't there? Could she have acted out of jealousy or hurt? I wouldn't say so outright,I'm too kind for that. But there's a part of me that wonders if she's capable of revenge. Still, I try to think the best of her."

Samuel Dawson
"People have been whispering that Samuel and I had a... relationship. It's simply not true. I was always loyal to C.C., no matter what people think. Samuel was a kind man and a good friend, and that's all. He doesn't deserve to be dragged into this mess. He's going through enough with the foreclosure notice,C.C. told me he bought the land to build me a garden, but I wonder now if it was out of jealousy."

Carley Hamilton
"Carley... I've had my suspicions about her. She could have resented C.C. for what happened between her parents. I mean, a divorce over infidelity? That's not easy for a child to bear, even if she won't admit it. But she hides it well, doesn't she? I don't want to point fingers, but maybe there's more to her story than she lets on."

William Wolf
"William knows more about the finances than anyone. If you're looking for answers about the debts, he's the one to ask. I've always trusted him to handle the business, even if he was hard on C.C. But maybe he was too harsh... sometimes I think William pushed C.C. too far, especially with the bank situation."

Lyle Wilson
"Lyle has always been loyal to this house,almost too loyal. He loves it here, and I can't help but think he'd do anything to secure his place. He's ambitious, and ambition can be dangerous. I can't say I fully trust him, though he's never given me a direct reason to doubt him. Still, there's something... something that just doesn't sit right."

Sarah Wolf
"If you want to know what's going on behind the scenes, Sarah's the one to talk to. She's always got her ear to the ground, picking up all the little bits of gossip. She might know more than she lets on."

Thoughts on Clues:

Sleeping Pills Found on C.C.'s Body

"Yes, C.C. used sleeping pills when he was stressed, but he would never overdose on them,either on purpose or by accident. Something's not right here. Whoever put those pills there wants us to believe it was an accident, but I know better. I'm certain someone else is behind this."

Mary's thoughts: "It is peculiar, isn't it? After all these years, a baby girl. At first, I thought it was just a miracle, like everyone said. But now, after everything that's happened... I can't help but wonder if Carley has other motives. Did she come here to help or to cause trouble?

Sarah Wolf  Bio: round 2

C.C. Wolf
(“C.C. didn’t kill himself. Everyone knows by now it wasn’t suicide,it’s just not possible. And while people might have thought he was this wealthy, influential man, the truth is that C.C. was drowning in debt. But no one knows that except for me, William, and maybe Mary. To the rest of the world, including people like Carley, Lyle, and the servants, C.C. kept up the illusion that the Wolf family was swimming in money. He fooled them all, making them think he was on top of the world. But the reality? He was losing everything.”)

Carley Hamilton
(“Carley has a real motivation for wanting C.C. dead. Revenge makes sense for her. After all, her family was torn apart by that divorce, and maybe she blames C.C. for it. I don’t trust her,there’s something calculating about her. She’s the kind of person who could have a hidden agenda, and right now, she’s high on my list of suspects.”)

William Wolf
(“William? He’s not the killer. If C.C. was still alive, maybe, just maybe, he’d have reason to do something drastic. But with C.C. gone, all that debt falls on us. He knew about it, just like I did, and now we have to figure out how to deal with the mess C.C. left behind. No, William wouldn’t have done this,he has too much to lose.”)

Lyle Wilson
(“Lyle, for all his loyalty, has always been hungry for more. He’s spent years thinking that if he stayed close to C.C., he'd end up with something,maybe even the house or a better position. He’s one of those people who genuinely believed C.C. was rich. I don’t think he fully realizes the financial disaster we’re in. But could Lyle have wanted something so badly that he’d do this? I can’t rule him out yet.”)

Elma Parker and Verbina
(“The servants? They’re just as in the dark about money as everyone else. Neither of them would have known how deep C.C. was in with his debts. Still, desperate people do desperate things.”)

---

Thoughts on Clues (The clues that don’t directly relate to Sarah are not written word for word, only excerpts.):

Letter from Adrella (Clue: Old Letter)

Sarah's Thoughts (“This letter was written years ago, but it raises an important point about Carley. Even back then, there were whispers about how strange it was for her mother to have another child after so many years. Maybe Carley’s been harboring resentment for a long time,perhaps she even believes C.C. was involved somehow. The timing of everything feels too convenient, and Carley has more reason than anyone to want C.C. gone.”)

Divorce Decree of Carley's Parents (Clue: Divorce Papers)

(“The Hamilton divorce was messy. Infidelity was at the heart of it, and I’ve always thought Carley might blame C.C. for how things turned out. She’s a proud woman, and being reminded of that scandal must eat away at her. Revenge could have been her motivation,it makes sense.”)

Foreclosure Notice to Samuel Dawson (Clue: Foreclosure Letter)

(“ I feel bad for Samuel because he was kept in the dark about C.C. 's finances. C.C. made it look like he was doing well, buying up land, but the truth is, he was only digging himself deeper into debt. Maybe Samuel thought the Wolf family had money to burn, but now he’s stuck in this mess, too. I don’t think Samuel killed C.C., though. He’s got his own problems to deal with.”)

Sleeping Pills on C.C.’s Body (Clue: Sleeping Pills)

(“Those sleeping pills... C.C. used them when he was stressed, which was often. But there’s no way he took them to kill himself. He might have been reckless with his money, but he would never be careless enough to overdose on sleeping pills. Someone wants us to think that’s what happened, but I’m certain it was no accident. If anyone knew about his habits, they might have used that against him.”)

---

The Belladonna was found in her purse. In the 1920s, one of the common unsuspecting poisons found in beauty products was belladonna, derived from the deadly nightshade plant. It was often used in cosmetics, especially eye drops, to dilate pupils and give women a more alluring, doe-eyed appearance. “This is just some of my makeup its not poison or harmful in any way that I know

Sarah’s main concern is protecting the family's reputation while also being realistic about the financial trouble they are now in. She’s sharp, observant, and has her suspicions about Carley, Lyle, and anyone else who may have misunderstood the Wolf family’s true financial state. For Sarah, the most important thing is uncovering who wanted to ruin the illusion of wealth and what they gained from it.

Carley Hamilton Bio: Round 2

C.C. Wolf
(“C.C. brought me into his world to teach me about business, or at least that’s what he said. I still believe that’s true, but sometimes I wonder if there’s more to the story. Maybe it has something to do with my parents’ divorce. I feel bad for him, though. For all his flaws, he didn’t deserve this,especially not the way it happened.”)

Mary Wolf
(“Mary... she could definitely be the killer. After all, who knew C.C.’s secrets better than his own wife? She’s always had this calm, sweet demeanor, but I’m not fooled. I’ve seen glimpses of something darker behind that smile. If anyone had reason to silence C.C., it could’ve been her. Maybe she got tired of covering up for him or just couldn’t take the pressure anymore.”)

Lyle Wilson
(“Lyle was always jealous. He hated how much time C.C. and I spent working together. I could see it in his eyes every time he looked at me,like I was taking something from him. He probably expected C.C. to favor him or give him more responsibility, but instead, C.C. invested in me. Lyle had a chip on his shoulder about that.”)

---

Thoughts on Clues, Also clues have been cut down to the main point:

Divorce Decree (Clue: Divorce Papers)

(“This divorce... it’s a wound that never really healed. I know the court blamed my mother, but I’ve always felt like there was something more to it. And somehow, I blame Mary. I don’t know why, but it’s like she’s connected to this pain, this fracture in my family. It’s hard to explain, but I can’t shake the feeling that she had something to do with the misery my parents went through. Maybe that’s why I’ve never fully trusted her.”)

(Carley doesn’t like discussing her father’s death and prefers to keep it a sensitive topic.)

Adrella’s Letter (Clue: Old Letter)

"Dearest Mary,
There’s been quite a bit of talk around town lately. It seems Mrs. Hamilton has had a baby girl,can you imagine? After all these years! It must have been nearly twenty years since her boys were born..."

(“This letter brings up old wounds. My family has always been under scrutiny, but this letter makes me wonder,was there something going on behind the scenes back then that I didn’t know about? Why did Mary keep this letter? What was she really trying to say? Maybe there’s a connection here that I've missed, and I can't help but think it ties into the way she operates. She could be hiding something much bigger.")

Sleeping Pills on C.C.'s Body (Clue: Sleeping Pills)

("Those pills... I know C.C. took them for stress, but I don't believe for a second that he overdosed on purpose. There's no way he would've done that. He was too proud, too determined to keep up appearances. Someone staged this to look like a suicide, but it wasn't. Whoever did this wanted us to believe C.C. couldn't handle the pressure, but I know better. It's too convenient.")

---

Carley is torn between sympathy for C.C. and suspicion toward the people around him. Her own history with her parents' divorce makes her particularly sensitive to the relationships and secrets within the Wolf family. She's suspicious of Mary, certain that there's more to her than meets the eye, and feels Lyle's jealousy is worth noting. Carley's focus is on understanding the hidden motives behind C.C.'s death and the web of secrets that might have led to it.

William’s Round 2 Bio

What he thinks of the Other Characters:

1. C.C. Wolf:

Opinion: William thinks C.C. was irresponsible with his money and a bit of a ladies' man. While he believes C.C. was loyal to Mary, he knows his brother liked to flirt and charm women, which could have caused complications. William cared about C.C., but he often saw him as reckless, especially with his finances.

Connection to C.C.’s Death: C.C.’s financial problems could have been a motive for many people. While William wasn’t directly affected by C.C.’s debt, he worried it would ruin the bank's reputation, which made C.C.’s financial decisions a major point of tension between the two.

2. Samuel Dawson:

Opinion: William thinks Samuel might be a decent guy but recognizes that C.C. essentially ruined his career by taking his land. This could be a powerful motive for Samuel to have killed C.C. William knows that losing land can make people desperate, and he sees Samuel as someone with a legitimate reason to hold a grudge.

Connection to C.C.’s Death: Samuel’s grudge against C.C. for taking his land is something William can understand. He thinks it’s a solid reason for someone like Samuel to want revenge, and this makes Samuel a strong suspect in William’s eyes.

3. Lyle Wilson:

Opinion: William views Lyle as aggressive but doesn’t consider him particularly suspicious at first. He knows that Lyle admired C.C.’s wealth and position, and William doesn’t think Lyle would want to jeopardize that by killing C.C. However, he’s unsure how Lyle’s admiration for C.C. might line up with any motive to murder.

Connection to C.C.’s Death: Lyle’s admiration for C.C. doesn’t make much sense as a motive for William, but he remains open to the possibility that Lyle’s aggression could have played a role in the murder.

4. Mary Wolf:

Opinion: William thinks Mary is a kind and caring woman. He doesn’t believe for a second that she could be the killer, and he’s confident that Mary would do anything to help solve the mystery. She’s too nice in his eyes to have committed such an act.

Connection to C.C.’s Death: William doesn’t consider Mary a suspect at all. He sees her as an ally who will help get to the bottom of what happened to C.C.

5. Sarah Wolf:

Opinion: Like Mary, William views Sarah as innocent and determined to help with the investigation. He doesn't think she has anything to do with C.C.'s death.

Connection to C.C.'s Death: William trusts Sarah and doesn't think she had any involvement in C.C.'s murder.

6. The Servants (Verbina & Elma):

Opinion: William has heard some gossip and drama among the servants, but he hasn't paid much attention to it. He doesn't know the details and doesn't think their personal lives are of much interest, but he won't rule out that they might know something.

Connection to C.C.'s Death: While he doesn't know the specifics of their relationships with C.C., William suspects the servants could have witnessed or overheard something important.

- William's Thoughts: William is deeply worried about the impact this could have on the bank's reputation. Although he says he "handled it" by talking to C.C., the letter made it clear that this situation was urgent and could spiral out of control if not addressed quickly. He feels the pressure to protect the bank and the family name, even if C.C. wasn't taking it seriously enough.  William can emphasize that while his own money was safe, the bank's reputation was at risk, which made the situation critical
- If asked whether this debt could be a motive for murder, William might say: "It's possible. Someone could have felt that C.C.'s financial ruin would destroy more than just his own life. But I still think this is more about personal grudges than money."

Elma Parker Round 2 Bio

Role:

- Elma is a servant at the Wolf Mansion who has developed a major crush on C.C. Wolf. In her mind, C.C. reciprocates her feelings, though there's little evidence to support this. She's close with Verbina, her best friend, and together they often share gossip and secrets, though Verbina is more tight-lipped when it comes to her personal affairs. Elma is also suspicious of some people in the house, particularly Sarah and Lyle, as she has overheard conversations that make her question their motives.

What She Thinks of People:

- C.C. Wolf: Elma has a huge crush on C.C., and in her mind, he loves her back. She convinces herself that C.C. pays extra attention to her and that his kindness means more than just employer,servant politeness. Elma's feelings for C.C. cloud her judgment, making it hard for her to see any flaws in him. She's a bit naive when it comes to the complexities of his personal life.
- Verbina: Best friends! Elma is very close to Verbina, and they confide in each other about life at the mansion. Verbina once mentioned a boy she liked, but Elma doesn't know who it is. She's determined to find out, though! Verbina is more reserved and keeps certain things private, especially when it comes to her romantic interests.
- Carley Hamilton: Carley is one of the kids who live in the house, and Elma often finds herself cleaning up after her. She thinks Carley doesn't do a good job of picking up after herself and is a bit spoiled, though Elma doesn't harbor any strong dislike for her.
- Lyle Wilson: Elma is suspicious of Lyle, especially after overhearing him arguing with C.C. She heard them yelling about money, the house, and Lyle's future. Verbina dismissed it as nothing serious, saying Lyle just wanted a bigger office for more space to work, but Elma wasn't convinced. She knows C.C. and William have arguments like that all the time, but something about Lyle's desperation that day still bothers her.
- Sarah Wolf: Elma thinks Sarah Wolf is the real troublemaker in the house. Sarah is always trying to get close to C.C. and stirring up trouble, especially around the holidays. Elma believes Sarah is manipulative and constantly prying into other people’s business. Elma finds Sarah’s behavior unsettling and might view her as someone who thrives on chaos.

Clues Elma Knows:

- If asked about Verbina: Elma can mention that Verbina has been acting a little secretive lately, especially when it comes to a boy she’s been talking about. Elma will say that she hasn’t figured out who this boy is, but she’s determined to get more information out of Verbina soon.
- If asked about overhearing the argument: Elma should talk about the heated argument she overheard between Lyle and C.C. She can describe how Lyle was upset about money and his future, and how C.C. told him he wouldn’t get anything more. Elma might mention that she found the argument unsettling and that Lyle seemed desperate. She’ll also say that Verbina didn’t think it was a big deal and assumed Lyle was just upset about not getting his new office.

Verbina's Character Bio: Round 2

Thoughts on Other Characters:

C.C. Wolf: Verbina doesn't mind C.C., but she's suspicious that he's hiding more financial trouble than he lets on. While she's noticed something going on between him and Elma, she chooses not to confront her friend about it. Still, it makes her uncomfortable.

Elma: Elma is her best friend, and they always have each other's backs. Elma doesn't know about Verbina's relationship with Lyle, but that will come out in Round 3. For now, Verbina avoids any discussion about Lyle around Elma to keep it a secret.

Mrs. Lemon (Verbina's Sister no one knows yet): Verbina has complicated feelings toward her sister, Mrs. Lemon. She feels that Mrs. Lemon is overprotective and holds her back, especially when it comes to her relationship with Lyle. The fact that people don't know they're sisters allows Verbina to downplay this tension, but she privately resents Mrs. Lemon for trying to control her. In public, if asked about Mrs. Lemon, she'll say Mrs. Lemon is just possessive and might even suggest that Mrs. Lemon had a motive to kill C.C. Wolf due to thinking C.C. was trying to take over the church. However, Verbina doesn't truly believe this,she's just venting her frustrations about her sister.

Lyle Wilson: Verbina is in love with Lyle. She thinks he's incredibly kind, smart, and determined. She admires his ambition and believes he'll be a great businessman one day. They've even talked about living together in the Wolf mansion, and Verbina is confident Lyle will take care of her financially, given his knack for handling money. She's aware that Lyle had arguments with C.C. Wolf but sees them as harmless business disagreements.

Mary Wolf: Verbina likes Mary and thinks she's a kind person who holds the mansion together. She doesn't see Mary as a threat and respects her role in the household.

Sarah Wolf: Verbina also thinks Sarah is kind, though she believes Sarah sometimes says too much. Verbina keeps her distance from Sarah's gossiping tendencies but overall has a neutral view of her.

Carley: Verbina doesn't fully understand why Carley is living in the house. She doesn't interact much with her and finds her presence somewhat irrelevant to her own life in the mansion.

Clues Verbina Knows About:

1. Elma's Diary Entry:

Verbina doesn' know what exactly is written in the entry but she knows that Elma is starting to figure out that she's in a relationship with someone (though Elma doesn't yet know it's Lyle). Elma mentioned in her diary that Verbina has been wearing a pretty bracelet and talking about a boy, which worries Verbina slightly, but she's confident that she can keep the secret for now.

2. Mrs. Lemon's Sermon (The Perils of Greed):

Verbina knows about Mrs. Lemon's dislike for C.C. Wolf and how she's preached against the dangers of greed, which many have interpreted as a veiled criticism of C.C. Verbina is aware that her sister has a personal vendetta against C.C., but she doesn't fully agree with it. Nonetheless, she mentions it when necessary to deflect attention away from Lyle or herself.

3. Elma's Diary Entry (August 14th, 1920):

Verbina knows about the argument between Lyle and C.C. Wolf that Elma overheard. Elma confided in her that she overheard Lyle yelling about money and the house, but Verbina brushed it off, telling Elma that Lyle was just trying to get a bigger office for his business ambitions. Verbina is trying to protect Lyle from anything bad and dismisses the argument as normal tension between a boss and an employee.

Mrs. Lemon Round 2 Bio:

C.C. Wolf:
“I’ll be the first to say it: C.C. was greedy. Always poking his nose where it didn’t belong, especially with that church and his ridiculous matching money scheme. He wasn’t doing it for the congregation, that’s for sure. No, he wanted control. But I’ll tell you one thing,C.C. wouldn’t have killed himself. For all his faults, he was far too proud for that.”

Verbina:
“My sister? Oh, Verbina is a good girl, always working hard. People might want to point fingers at her, but I’ll tell you right now,she’s not responsible for anything happening in that house. She’s young, maybe a bit naive, but she does her job, and I won’t hear a word against her. I’ll protect her if it comes to that.”

Mary Wolf:
“Mary’s always been fine in my eyes. She’s done her part for the church, more than C.C. ever did. I don’t see her as someone to blame in all of this. She’s kept her distance from the mess her husband’s created, and I can respect that.”

Sarah Wolf:
“I don’t know Sarah very well. She’s not much of a churchgoer,comes around only on rare occasions. Can’t say I have much of an opinion on her, one way or the other. She’s a bit of a mystery, to be honest.”

Elma Parker:
“Elma’s a good friend to Verbina, that much I know. But I’ll admit, she can be a bit irresponsible. She’s young too, and while she means well, she doesn’t always think things through. I don’t want to be too hard on her, but sometimes, I wonder if her head is in the right place.”

Thoughts on Clues:

Sleeping Pills Found on C.C.'s Body:
"C.C. may have used sleeping pills now and then, but he'd never take more than he needed. I'm sure of it. Someone wants us to believe his death was accidental, but I know better. There's no way he overdosed, and he definitely didn't do it on purpose."

Divorce Decree (Hamilton Family):
"I remember the Hamilton divorce like it was yesterday. It broke my heart to hear about it, and for a while, I blamed myself. But now, I'm starting to wonder if Carley's been holding a grudge against C.C. all this time. Could that be why she's here now, stirring up old memories?"

This dialogue for Mrs. Lemon emphasizes her protective nature toward Verbina and her strong opinions about C.C. and his dealings, while leaving room for her to express doubt and suspicion about others in subtle ways.

Samuel Dawson Round 2 Bio:

Key Point to Tell Guests:
"I owned a piece of land,good land,until C.C. took it from me. Mary Wolf used to come out to watch the workers, and sometimes, she'd talk to me. We had good conversations, real ones. I always thought there was something special about her."

Ideas for Dialogue:
(Feel free to adjust the wording based on how you feel Samuel would express himself, but these lines should cover his general thoughts.)

C.C. Wolf:
"C.C. was greedy, plain and simple. I wasn't even behind on my payments, but he took my land anyway. It was unfair, and I won't sugarcoat it,there are people out there who might've wanted him dead. He did enough to earn enemies, that's for sure."

Mary Wolf:
"Mary? She's a good woman. Kind,hearted. We used to talk when she'd come out to the farm, and I always thought she could've had a better life. C.C. didn't treat her right, but I know in my heart she'd never hurt him. She's not like that."

William Wolf:
"William's just like his brother,greedy. Always raising Lyle to follow in their footsteps, too. I've only ever known them as businessmen who'll take whatever they can get. I don't trust him any more than I trusted C.C."

Sarah Wolf:
"Sarah seems nice enough. I don't know her all that well, but from what I've seen, she's alright. Nothing to complain about."

Verbina & Elma (The Maids):
“They’re fine girls, both of them. Just doing their jobs, like the rest of us. I’ve got no problems with either of them.”

Thoughts on Clues:

Pocket watch: You will have a pocket watch that you took from the crime scene. C.C. wore it at the opening ceremony. If people ask about it and harshly accuse you, you say it was rightfully yours. C.C. took it from you when he stole your land in the foreclosure, you were just getting it back now. You meant no harm, you just wanted your property back.

Sleeping Pills Found on C.C.’s Body:
“C.C. using sleeping pills doesn’t surprise me, but overdosing? No. That’s not how it happened. Someone wants us to think it was an accident, but I think they’re hiding something. Someone else is behind this, I’m sure of it.”

Notice of Foreclosure (Samuel Dawson’s Land):
“C.C. said he bought my land to build a garden for Mary, but I know the truth. It was jealousy. He couldn’t stand how close Mary and I had become, so he punished me by taking it all away. I wish I could change things, but now it’s too late.”

This format emphasizes Samuel’s bitterness toward C.C. and William while highlighting his admiration for Mary. He’s also a down,to,earth character who doesn’t get too involved in the drama surrounding others, except where it concerns his own loss.

Lyle Wilson Round 2 Bio:

Key Point to Tell Guests:
“I’m Mary’s nephew,that’s why I live here in the mansion. I’ve always been close to her, and I help out around the house when I can. It’s been my home for a long time.”

Thoughts on Characters,

C.C. Wolf:
“C.C. was a great businessman, no doubt about it. He knew how to get things done. But I’ll be honest, he wasn’t always fair to me. I thought I’d be the one to follow in his footsteps, but he took Carley under his wing instead. I had more reason to be close to him,family blood, after all,but C.C. didn’t see it that way. Even with that being said I am sad to see such a great mentor go.”

Mary Wolf:
“Aunt Mary? She’s the kindest soul I’ve ever known. She wouldn’t hurt a fly, and I mean that. I’ve always admired her, and I know she’s always looked out for me, even when things got tough.”

William Wolf:
“I don’t like William. Never have. He and I work together a lot so you’ll hear different stories but he was always jealous of C.C., trying to take over the bank. C.C. built that place with his own hands, had a big part in its success, and William was just waiting to swoop in. He’s not someone I trust.”

Carley Hamilton:
“I’ll admit it,I’m jealous of Carley. C.C. treated her like his protégé, teaching her everything about the bank, like she was part of the family. But what about me? I’m his nephew, his blood. I never understood why he didn’t choose me instead.”

Verbina (The Maid):
“Verbina? she does great work, well Elma does good too. But I've helped verbina out around the house before.”

Sarah Wolf:
“Sarah’s nice enough when she comes around for the holidays. She doesn’t cause any trouble, and we get along just fine.”

Samuel Dawson:
“I know Samuel was one of C.C.’s business partners, but they had a falling out. I’m not exactly sure what went wrong between them, but it wasn’t good. Samuel’s not someone I’m close with, though.”

Mrs. Lemon:
“Mrs. Lemon? I don’t know why, but she doesn’t seem to like me. I haven’t done anything to her, at least not that I’m aware of. The more she shows her dislike, the more I find myself liking her less too. There’s just something about her that doesn’t sit right.”

Thoughts on Clues:

Bracelet Found in Lyle’s Drawer:
“That bracelet? My girl made it for me. I won’t say who she is, but it’s someone special. She means a lot to me, and that bracelet is a reminder of her. It’s the only clue I’ll give you for now.”

This format emphasizes Lyle’s inner struggles,his jealousy over Carley’s relationship with C.C., his secret relationship with Verbina, and his distrust of William. He’s loyal to his aunt Mary but feels overlooked by C.C. when it comes to the family business. His relationship with Verbina is a key secret that adds intrigue to his character.
